Automated Financial Systems, Inc. Announces Latest Version of the Industry's Next-Generation Lending Solution, AFSVision®

Exton, PA, March 7, 2023—Automated Financial Systems, Inc. \(AFS®\) is pleased to announce the delivery of our latest release 3.4 of AFSVision, the industry's only true real-time, end-to-end, commercial lending platform.

"AFS has delivered the latest version of our revolutionary commercial lending solution, AFSVision, to the market. This delivery demonstrates our continuing commitment to supporting financial institutions in modernizing and maximizing their commercial lending business," says Rick Bare, CEO and President of AFS.

AFSVision is an integrated single loan platform for multiple commercial lines of business that has transformed how financial institutions manage commercial lending. Now, with more than a dozen major enhancements in functionality, this new release includes even greater capabilities in:

- Integration—DIY APIs for easier end-to-end integration
- Workflows—improved navigations and further streamlining
- Account and Syndication Servicing—additional critical note flags
- Capital Markets—enhanced notice history and resend
- SOFR Processing—additional billing options

"We are always exploring ways to bring technical innovation to commercial lending. With these latest enhancements, our clients can more easily take advantage of AFSVision's robust suite of features and functionality to advance their omnichannel strategies and deliver a leading customer experience," said John Dubil, CTO and Sr. Vice President, AFS.
